OTHER HAPPENINGS DURING THE ALK SUMMIT

The University of Michigan's Judith Tam ALK Lung Cancer Research Initiative on site collecting samples from ALK-positive patients attending the Summit who have consented to be part of this study. Blood collected will be used to find better ways to monitor the disease at all stages and determine the cause of progression in order to drive effective treatment plans. Many thanks to Dr. Sofia Merajver and her team for endless hours of preparation to ensure the successes of this amazing event.

The “Dr. Lovly Lab”: An immersive ALK-positive cell experience

Dr. Christine Lovly brings her research directly to you with an immersive lab experience where you will have the unique opportunity to look through the microscope and observe ALK-positive cells up close..

23andMe Lung Cancer Genetics Study

The goals of the study are to better understand how genetics impacts lung cancer risk and treatment response and resistance so we can work toward improving detection, prevention, and care. Patients who choose to participate will receive a 23andMe Health + Ancestry kit at no cost.

Filming & Interviews for the Genentech-sponsored campaign promoting Biomarker Testing

Throughout the Summit, a film crew will be on-site interviewing pre-selected ALK patients and their care partners for their “Ask About ALK” campaign. These personal stories will highlight the journey of diagnosis, the impact of biomarker testing, and the subsequent treatment pathways that have enhanced their lives.

Scientific Posters on Display
